Delhi High Court Rules Law Firm's Name Usage Fee as Legitimate Business Expense

Sheikh Rayees • February 3, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Delhi High Court has ruled that the license fee paid by intellectual property law firm Remfry & Sagar for the use of its name and goodwill qualifies as a legitimate business expense under the Income Tax Act, 1961. The case revolved around the firm's agreement to pay a fee to Remfry & Sagar Consultants Private Limited (RSCPL), a company owned by the family of its founder, Dr. V. Sagar....
