Delhi High Court Strikes Down Trial Court's Drastic Page Limit on Legal Pleading

Sheikh Rayees • July 8, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a recent turn of events, the Delhi High Court has invalidated a trial court's directive mandating a drastic reduction of a 45-page plaint to a mere five pages in a recovery suit against the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI). Justice Manoj Jain, presiding over the case, emphasized the necessity of brevity in legal documents but underscored the impracticality of condensing essential details into such a restrictive format. "While...
