Delhi High Court Upholds Minority Institutions' Right to Appoint Staff

Sheikh Rayees • May 31, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Delhi High Court has affirmed that government-aided minority educational institutions hold the unequivocal right to appoint their principals, teachers, and other staff members, without needing prior government approval. This decision emerged from the case of Delhi Tamil Education Association v. Director of Education and Ors. Justice C. Hari Shankar clarified that the Department of Education's (DoE) regulatory authority is confined to setting the qualifications and...
