SUPREME COURT

Dual CBI Cases Raise Red Flag, Supreme Court Grants Bail to Former Jharkhand Minister

Sheikh Rayees • April 15, 2026

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has stepped in to grant interim relief to former Jharkhand Cabinet Minister Anosh Ekka, suspending his sentence in a disproportionate assets case and allowing him to be released on bail while his appeal remains pending. The move came after the Court noted that two separate prosecutions launched by the Central Bureau of Investigation appeared to rely on overlapping allegations.
