SUPREME COURT

Extended Negotiations Lead to Quashing of Criminal Appeals in Cheque Dishonour Case

Zurain Bukhari • May 1, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a conclusive judgment by the Supreme Court of India, all criminal proceedings related to a cheque dishonour case under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, initially arising from a failed business transaction in 2012, were quashed. The appellant, after a series of legal battles and negotiations, succeeded in fully compensating the complainant with an additional interest payment, leading to this landmark decision. The legal journey, marked by appeals...
