Supreme Court Orders Centre to Build Long-Delayed Tribunals Watchdog

Sheikh Rayees • November 19, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The country's highest court has delivered a sharp reminder to the Union Government: the long-promised National Tribunals Commission is no longer optional, no longer deferrable, and certainly no longer theoretical. A firm, four-month deadline now hangs over the Centre to finally bring the Commission to life—an institution the Court has been urging into existence for years.
