Hospital Ordered to Pay INR65 Lakh for Botched Angioplasty, Leaves Patient in Vegetative State

Sheikh Rayees • August 12, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a significant ruling, the National Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission (NCDRC) has directed Fortis Escorts Heart Institute and Research Centre, Delhi, along with the head of its cardiac department, to compensate a family with INR65 lakhs following a controversial medical procedure that left a 62-year-old man partially paralyzed. The decision, issued on August 7 by Justice Ram Surat Ram Maurya and Technical member Bharat Kumar Pandya, highlighted a critical...
