India's Evolving Role in International Commercial Arbitration

Balancing Tradition and Modernity

Iftikhar Hassan Samoon • June 8, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

International commercial arbitration has become a preferred method for resolving cross-border disputes, offering parties a neutral forum, procedural flexibility, and enforceability of awards across jurisdictions. India, as a significant player in the global economy, has seen substantial developments in this area, reflecting its commitment to fostering a favorable environment for international arbitration. The Indian judiciary has been instrumental in shaping the country's arbitration...
