Supreme Court Quashes Nine-Month Detention Over Bureaucratic Blunders

Sheikh Rayees • September 13, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a landmark ruling, the Supreme Court of India overturned the nine-month preventive detention of Appisseril Kochu Mohammed Shaji, denouncing the negligence of jail authorities in handling his right to representation. The Court condemned the nine-month delay in forwarding Shaji's representation and the failure to provide key materials necessary for his defense, labeling the jail's actions as "casual" and "callous." Shaji had been detained under the...
