New Guidelines Aim for Fairness in Case Allocation Among Panel Counsel

Sheikh Rayees • November 14, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a bid to address growing concerns of inequitable case distribution, the Ministry of Law and Justice has unveiled a fresh set of directives for the transparent allocation of cases among the Central Government's panel counsel. This move comes after numerous complaints were raised about the lack of clarity and fairness in the process, particularly from panel members and various government ministries. Under the newly issued guidelines, which were formalized...
