No Recess for Justice

Inside the Supreme Court's Relentless 'Partial Working Days'

Sheikh Rayees • July 12, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The air conditioners may have been humming a little louder and the dress code slightly relaxed, but make no mistake — India's top court didn't go on holiday. This year, the Supreme Court chose to toss aside the old label of "summer vacation" and rechristen it as "partial court working days," a subtle but telling signal that judicial machinery doesn't sleep, even under a blazing July sun. And this wasn't...
