COURT OF RECORD

Parked Tanker Not Responsible for Rear-End Collision

Editorial Team • September 19, 2026

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Gauhati High Court has rejected the Indian government's compensation claim for damage to a defence vehicle that struck a parked oil tanker. Photographs and a site plan showed the tanker positioned on the far-left side of the highway. The defence driver's account was inconsistent with the physical evidence. The court also noted that the driver had been charged following an accident causing one death and injuries. The judgment demonstrates...
