SUPREME COURT

Proclaimed Offenders Can Seek Anticipatory Bail

Supreme Court Clarifies

Sheikh Rayees • November 17, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has ruled that being declared a proclaimed offender under Section 82 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) does not automatically disqualify an individual from seeking anticipatory bail. A bench comprising Justices M.M. Sundresh and Aravind Kumar emphasized that each case must be assessed on its unique merits. “It is not as if in all cases there will be a total embargo on considering the application for...
