SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Affirms Judicial Review Over Delimitation Orders

Sheikh Rayees • August 7, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has confirmed that the constitutional courts retain the authority to review Delimitation Commission orders when they are deemed arbitrary and contradictory to constitutional values. The court emphasized that while judicial review in delimitation matters is guided by established principles, courts are not barred from assessing the validity of such orders under the Constitution. Should an order be found manifestly arbitrary, the court can intervene to rectify the...
