SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Affirms Power of Attorney Holder with Firsthand Knowledge Can Testify in Sale Agreements

Sheikh Rayees • November 14, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court clarified that a power of attorney holder, who is also a vendee and plaintiff, may serve as a witness in matters involving an agreement to sell when they possess firsthand knowledge of the transaction. This ruling enables such individuals to testify on behalf of other plaintiffs in specific situations requiring personal insight. The bench, consisting of Justice Vikram Nath and Justice Prashant Kumar Mishra, examined the case...
