PUBLISHED REPORT

In a sharp rebuke to the Competition Commission of India (CCI), the Supreme Court on Tuesday dismissed its challenge against a glass manufacturer's use of volume-based discounts, ruling that such practices don't amount to anti-competitive behavior under the Competition Act, 2002. The decision came from a bench led by Justices Vikram Nath and Prasanna B. Varale, who found no foul play in the company's offer of target-based rebates. Instead of...
