SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Declares Automatic Stay Vacation Invalid in Pending Trials

Sheikh Rayees • July 25, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has clarified a key legal issue concerning interim protection orders in criminal cases. The ruling came from the case of High Court Bar Association, Allahabad v. State of U.P. & Ors., which overturned the 2018 decision in the Asian Resurfacing case. The apex court determined that if a trial has not concluded and an automatic vacation of stay had occurred under the previous ruling, such vacation is...
