Supreme Court Declares Sex Education a Government Duty Under POCSO Act

Sheikh Rayees • September 24, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a significant judgment, the Supreme Court has asserted that governments bear the responsibility to provide sex education and raise public awareness about the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act. The ruling emphasized that creating a more compassionate society is essential to support victims, guiding them toward healing, safety, and dignity. Highlighting the need to reform societal attitudes, the Court stressed that legal structures must protect...
