

THE

LAWYERS' POST

BY THE COURT CAST PROJECT

SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court

Defendant May Test Plaintiff's Claimed Brand-Use Period Even Without Written Statement On Record

Sheikh Rayees • August 12, 2026

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has ruled that a defendant in a trademark infringement case cannot be barred from questioning the plaintiff about when the disputed brand was first used merely because the defendant's written statement has not yet been taken on record.

Full report • lawyerspost.in

OPEN JUDGMENT PDF

FULL STORY

LAWYERSPOST.IN