Supreme Court Embraces Transparency

Judges to Publicly Declare Assets Online

Sheikh Rayees • April 3, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a landmark move towards greater judicial transparency, all 33 sitting Supreme Court judges have resolved to make their financial assets publicly accessible on the court's official website. This decision, adopted at a full court meeting on April 1, will also extend to all future appointees to the nation's highest bench. The move comes in response to growing concerns about opacity within the judiciary, particularly following allegations of a large...
