Fire's Origin Doesn't Matter When Insured Isn't to Blame

Sheikh Rayees • October 31, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has reaffirmed a vital principle in insurance law — that the source of a fire is irrelevant if the insured did not cause it. The ruling came as the Court dismissed an appeal by the National Insurance Company, siding instead with Orion Conmerx, whose property was damaged in a 2010 blaze.
