SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Frowns on Marathon Legal Speeches, Warns Arbitration Isn't a Stage for Ego Battles

Sheikh Rayees • April 22, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a courtroom clash that began with bricks and blueprints but ended in a sharp critique of legal showmanship, the Supreme Court has delivered a clear message to senior counsel across the country: keep it concise, especially in arbitration appeals. The top court, while dealing with a long-winded battle between Larsen & Toubro (L&T) and Puri Constructions, used the moment to spotlight a larger dysfunction—how arbitration hearings have begun to...
