Illegal Promotions Cannot Justify Further Violations

Sheikh Rayees • January 22, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has dismissed an appeal seeking promotion based on past instances of irregular advancements, firmly stating that constitutional principles do not permit perpetuating illegalities. The case revolved around a retired peon who sought promotion to the role of Tracer, arguing that others in similar positions had been promoted despite recruitment rules mandating 100% direct appointments for the post. The Orissa Subordinate Architectural Service Rules...
