Judgments Can Be Based on Admissions Even Outside Formal Pleadings

Sheikh Rayees • April 11, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a significant interpretation of civil procedure, the Supreme Court has ruled that courts can deliver a "judgment on admission" even when those admissions are made beyond the boundaries of formal pleadings—marking a broader, more flexible application of Order XII Rule 6 of the Civil Procedure Code (CPC). This provision allows courts to pronounce judgments at any stage of a civil suit if admissions of fact are made, whether in...
