Supreme Court Orders UP to Appoint Woman Constable After Medical Board Clears Her Eyesight

Sheikh Rayees • November 5, 2026

PUBLISHED REPORT

A medical rejection based on an alleged squint eye has cost a woman candidate years of uncertainty. Now, the Supreme Court has stepped in, directing the Uttar Pradesh government to issue her appointment order after an independent medical assessment found her eyesight to be normal. The case concerns Akanksha Devi, who had successfully cleared the document verification and Physical Standard Test (PST) stages of the Uttar Pradesh Police Constable recruitment...
