PMLA Overrides CrPC in Summoning Procedures

Sheikh Rayees • September 10, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a landmark ruling, the Supreme Court clarified that the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) supersedes the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) when it comes to procedures for summoning individuals. This decision came while dismissing the appeals of Trinamool Congress MP Abhishek Banerjee and his wife Rujira Banerjee, who had challenged the Enforcement Directorate's summons in a coal scam case, arguing they should only be summoned in Kolkata...
