Supreme Court Rejects Second SLP After First Dismissed Without Reasons

Sheikh Rayees • August 3, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a recent ruling on July 29, the Supreme Court has expressed a preliminary disagreement with the notion that a fresh Special Leave Petition (SLP) can be filed if the initial SLP was dismissed without reasons or withdrawn. This perspective was previously endorsed by a Division Bench in the case of S. Narahari And Ors. v. S.R. Kumar And Ors. Relying on Order XXIII Rule 1 of the Code of...
