Supreme Court Sets the Record Straight

No Half-Term Rule for Post-Conviction Bail

Sheikh Rayees • November 28, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has clarified that it has not established any rule requiring convicts to serve half of their sentence before being eligible for bail. This decision came while addressing a case challenging the Madhya Pradesh High Court's denial of a sentence suspension. The High Court had referenced a previous Supreme Court ruling in Atul alias Ashutosh v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2024), which involved granting bail to a convict...
