SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Slams 'Bulldozer Justice,' Upholds Rule of Law in Property Demolitions

Sheikh Rayees • November 14, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a strong rebuke to the growing trend of "bulldozer justice," the Supreme Court declared that property demolitions cannot be carried out based solely on criminal accusations or convictions. The Court emphasized that such actions violate the core principles of due process, separation of powers, and the rule of law, asserting that only the judiciary has the authority to determine guilt. The Court's ruling came as part of a broader...
