Strong Justification Needed for Court Receiver Appointment

Sheikh Rayees • November 21, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has clarified that simply establishing a "prima facie case" or citing "conduct" does not suffice to justify the appointment of a Court Receiver. The decision underlines the necessity for compelling evidence demonstrating potential harm to the property if a receiver is not appointed. This ruling came as the Court overturned a High Court order that appointed a receiver for a disputed property, a move previously rejected by...
