SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Upholds Compulsory Retirement of Two Chhattisgarh Clerks, Says No Prior Hearing Required

Sheikh Rayees • November 9, 2026

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has upheld the compulsory retirement of two employees of Chhattisgarh's Legal Metrology Department, ruling that such an order, when based on an assessment of an employee's service record, is neither punitive nor stigmatic and does not require a prior hearing. The Court also made it clear that an employee cannot challenge compulsory retirement simply because another officer with a comparable service record was allowed to continue in...
