SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Upholds Presumption of Paternity for Children Born During Marriage, Despite Allegations of Extramarital Affairs

Sheikh Rayees • January 29, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court, on January 28, reinforced a critical principle regarding the legitimacy of children born during a marriage. In a landmark ruling, it reaffirmed that the presumption of paternity rests firmly with the husband, even when allegations of the wife's extramarital relations surface. The case involved a dispute over the biological father of a child born during a woman's marriage to one man (RK), despite claims by another man...
