Supreme Court Warns

Electricity Is a Public Good, Not a Playground for Regulatory Neglect

Sheikh Rayees • August 8, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has thrown a sharp spotlight on the nation's electricity regulators, declaring that power supply isn't just another commodity—it's a public good, and regulators must treat it with the seriousness the law demands. In a ruling aimed squarely at the Electricity Regulatory Commissions (ERCs), the bench of Justices P.S. Narasimha and Sandeep Mehta laid down ten guiding principles, urging the watchdogs of the power sector to act with...
