Truck Ownership Doesn't Block Insurance Claim

Allahabad HC Rules in Unique Case

Sheikh Rayees • September 17, 2024

PUBLISHED REPORT

In a key ruling, the Allahabad High Court affirmed that an insurance company remains responsible for covering accidents, even when a vehicle's ownership hasn't been formally transferred. The decision came in a case involving a truck where the sale had been agreed upon but not officially recorded with the transport authorities. The dispute began when Govind Gupta, the registered owner of the truck, sought compensation after the vehicle was damaged....
