COURT OF RECORD

Vehicle Borrower Cannot Claim Against Owner's Insurance

Editorial Team • September 19, 2026

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Gauhati High Court has ruled that a person borrowing and driving a vehicle cannot claim no-fault compensation against its owner and insurer for a self-caused accident. The claimant lost control of a borrowed motorcycle without another vehicle being involved. A tribunal found him responsible but converted his negligence-based claim into a statutory no-fault claim and awarded compensation. The High Court reversed that award, holding that a permissive borrower effectively...
