Supreme Court Erases FIR in Property Dispute

Sheikh Rayees • August 1, 2025

PUBLISHED REPORT

The Supreme Court has drawn a firm line between civil grievances and criminal allegations, ruling that when a purely civil matter is camouflaged in criminal colors—with no trace of criminal intent—criminal proceedings cannot be allowed to limp forward. In a case where a property dispute snowballed into both a civil suit and an FIR for cheating and breach of trust, the Court declared the dual-track litigation an abuse of judicial...
